Audit Tip of the Month - Question 9.08

9.08. Do workers participate in the investigation process?

Read the guidelines:

- Not all workers need to actively participate in the incident investigation process; however, all workers must be able to describe how workers participate in the investigation process. Participation must be more than the injured worker or witness.

Auditors should not N/A out the workers, as they should all know how they, or other workers, participates.

Mike Lakusta - CCSA COR Coordinator

Meet Mike - Armed with a CRSP designation as well as a certificate in Environmental Health and Safety (UVIC) and a diploma in Social Work (McEwan University), he's been rocking the safety scene for over 30 years: Senior health and safety specialist, Manager, OHS, Instructor at NAIT, Certified CPTED practitioner. When he's not busy being a safety superhero, you can find him chilling at his cabin or diving into his favorite book "Master and Commander." Mike's not just all work - he's also a children's book author and a Star Trek fan. Plus, his colleagues can always count on his witty puns and jokes. Remember, when in doubt, it's always "Time for Tims" with Mike around!
